

The Answer Book

All attendees are encouraged to respond to the prepared questions. The Q&A Answer Book allows you to incorporate visual aids and lengthy or highly technical comments into a response. The Answer Book will also be available on the NPRA web site prior to the meeting for review by both attendees and their colleagues back at the office. The Answer Book will complement the session discussion, offer a preview of certain topics, and allow prospective attendees an opportunity to refine or focus their comments or questions.

Everyone is welcome to submit answers and other comments. To be included, you will need to submit your answers no later than September 12, 2005. This will allow time for NPRA to print the booklet and prepare it for on-site distribution.

Please use the following format:

- Identify yourself, your company, and the session and question number to which you are responding;
- Provide a contact name, phone number and/or email address in case there are questions about your response.

You may submit your responses via e-mail to Answerbook@npra.org